

Gender Inclusive Programme

PROJECT TO IMPROVE WOMEN'S SAFETY IN PUBLIC TRANSPORT - Delhi

Women do not feel safe or comfortable as they experience sexual harassment and sexual assault in public transport

Training of different transport service providers

Public awareness Campaign on women's 'rights to city' / safety- dissemination of information and strategies/ redressal mechanism through posters / sticker on buses, bus stops, terminals, autos, etc.

Engagement with senior management to effect strategic policy change

- 45 Delhi transport Corporation (DTC) instructors trained on skills to conduct gender sensitization training
- Development of training and reading materials for instructors and staff
- DTC Instructors to conduct gender sensitization / trainings with 40000 staff

15 women private taxi drivers in partnership with Azad Foundation sensitized on SH, legal provisions and skilled to deal with situations of women's safety and needs of other marginalized groups, like disabled people, elderly, etc

More users of public transport (men, women) become aware of the problem of sexual harassment and women's rights and the available redress strategies

•Gender sensitization sessions as part of DTC Curriculum for staff

Guidelines on women's safety for private taxi service providers

•Development of safety guidelines from the perspective of women's and disabled groups

DTC staff better informed and pro-active in handling incidents of violence against women in buses

Trained women taxi drivers feel confident about being able to deal with violent situations. Thus feel safer performing their job duties.

Women public transport users feel confident about confronting sexual harassment

Men recognize forms of violence against women and actively participate to make public transport spaces safe for women

Women's safety is consistently incorporated/ mainstreamed into policies

Improved design and better maintenance of public transport spaces

Sexual harassment and assault of women in public transport reduced; women feel safe and confident to access public transport
