

South District Intervention Proposal - Rosario

Women restrict their movement through and presence in public spaces (streets, squares and green spaces) for fear of experiencing violence, in particular during siesta and after dark

PROBLEM

Training and organisation of women to understand issues of women's safety and actively plan initiatives

Meetings with the district cabinet to present recommendations on improvements to the infrastructure and maintenance of area public spaces

Social and cultural events in area public spaces

Ongoing activities to increase awareness of women's rights and to promote women's use of public spaces

ACTIVITIES

Women understand the issues of women's safety and gender inclusion and have skills to organise and initiate action

Agreements among the organisations and the district government about the distribution of tasks and responsibilities in the project's development

Increased awareness amongst community members of women's right to use and enjoy public spaces

Neighbourhood organisations and institutions commit to inclusive use of public spaces and incorporate this in their agendas

OUTPUTS

Women develop experience and ability to demand their rights and negotiate with the district government

Local women maintain a long-term dialogue with district government

Improvements in the maintenance and infrastructure of area public spaces to make them safer and more accessible for women

Community and organizations start acting together to assert women's right to use public spaces

OUTCOMES

IMPACT

More women use public spaces freely at any time of day
